TO RESCUE 21 MEN ON AN ISLE

Bartlett Will Sail to the Aid of Sailors in Stefansson Crew

By telegraph to The Tribune.

Seattle, Wash., July 10.—The revenue cutter Bear, with Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, late of the Stefansson exploring ship Karluk, will sail from Nome, according to the advices received today, probably within a week, for Wrangell island, off the coast of Alaska, to take off 18 white men and four Eskimos, one of them a woman, who have been on the island since March 10, when they arrived from the scene of the wreck of the Karluk. The report that several men of the Karluk expedition were lost is an error, according to Capt. Bartlett.

The Karluk was crushed by the ice Jan. 10, north of Herald island. The men took all the provisions off the ship and placed them on the ice, also every thing else of value on the boat, which sank the next day. Herald Island was in sight to the south, and two parties set out for the island, but were unable to land.

A description of their experiences sent by Bartlett to Ottawa, was taken to mean that the parties did not afterward rejoin their comrades. This, however, Bartlett said yesterday, was an error. The whole party made their way to Wrangell Island. Then Bartlett and an Eskimo team of dogs set out over the ice for North Cape, Siberia, and crossed the Siberian peninsula to Bering Sea, finally arriving at Nome. About the same time a party of men went back over the ice to get supplies left at the scene of the wreck.

The white men now on Wrangell Island are:

Henry Beuchat, anthropologist; Bejarne Marten, assistant topographer; Dr. Alister Forbes-Mackay, surgeon; George S. Malloch, geologist; William Laid McKinley, magnetician; James Anderson, first mate; John Munroe, first engineer; Charles Barter, second mate; Robert Williamson, second engineer; F. W. Maurer, fireman; George Brodley, fireman; John Brody, Thomas Morris, P. King, A. Williams, seamen; Robert Templeton, steward; Ernest Chase, cabin boy.

So far as known none of the men suffered any serious mishaps. They have abundance of food and clothing and have excellent dog teams. With the return of the wild fowl in spring they were able to change from pemican to roast duck.

The length of time required for the Bear's voyage to Wrangell Island depends on the condition of the sea. The island is said to be difficult to land on, on account of the ice.

HUERTA READY TO FLEE.
